To Parkhurst, Briggs and Preachers of that Class Sermon in Richmond Sunday-Church News of Interest.

The First Baptist church was crowded to the doors Sunday morning with its regular congregation and many others besides to hear the Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, of Atlanta, preach the second of his sermons in the month of August, for which time he will fill the pulpit.

The music, under the direction of Mr. P. S. Powers, who was at the organ for the first time since his engagement there, was well rendered. Mr. H. Thurston Cardozo sang Rodney's "Mount of Olives" for an offertory with his usual taste and expression.

The text of the reverend gentleman was taken from the second chapter of the Second Book of Kings, the 14th verse, where are the words. Where is the Lord God of Elijah's and he said in part.

Has the God of the prophets and the apostles withdrawn from the earth? Does he no more dwell with men? Has he ceased to work wonders among them? Has human to work wonders among them? Has human frailty ceased to touch him? And human prayers ceased to move him?

If he is still accessible to mortals here be-low, and the windows of Heaven still stand open in answer to prayer, how shall we ac-count for the condition of the religious world of to-day? Why is this apathy and deadness in the churches and this lack of fervor and courage and power in the pulpit?

How shall we account for the fact that after more than eighteen hundred years after the crucifixion of our Lord infidelity after the crucifixion of our hord infidelity still flaunts its flag in our faces and chal-lenges us to prove that our God is anything else than a creation of our imagination? Why are the lines of Christ's kingdom ad-vancing so slowly? Why is there so little progress in overthrowing idolatry and turn-ing the Jews from their apostasy and planting the Cross where for 1,200 years the creasent has stood? erescent has stood ?

WILL IN THE WORLD,

We are bound to admit the pertinency of these questions. They will engage the at-tention of all serious and honest minds. In answer to them I desire to say that the God of Elijah is still in the world and is as accessible to his people and mindful of their prayers and ready to work wonders today as he ever was. He has never changed. The power by which Elijah accomplished wonders was not in the Prophet himself, but in the Prophet's God. Naturally, Elijah was as weak as any of us. The greatness in him was not his own, but God's. Elijah has left the earth, but Elijah's God remains. The power by which he wrought wonders and confounded his adversaries has always been in the world,

All the prophets from Moses to Malachi had it, John the Baptist had it, Inspired by it, he proclaimed with energy the reversa-lation and conquered a nation. Jesus gave Jeans gave it to his disciples and they went forth and worked miracles. It came upon the apostles at Pentecost with unprecedented demonstrations. St. Paul said his prophecy was in the demonstration of spirit and power; by it he rocked the old prison at Phillippi on its foundations, shook the fetters from his limbs and transformed the brutal jailer and his house into children of God; by it, also, he planted the church in Ephesus. Colossi and Corinth confounded the Athenian philosophers and made converts to the church at the palaces of the verts to the church at the palaces of the

That power did not cease when the last of the Apostles fell asleep, for Christ said to his disciples, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." After the death of the Apoetles there was a suspension of physical miracles, but moral miracles never ceased. In the renewal of human hearts, in the transformation of human char-acters into purity, in these things God has wrought miracles one thousand fold greater than ever attended the ministry of Patriarch, Prophet or Apostle. Such a mira-ele was the downfall of idolatry in the Ro-man Empire and the Reformation of Luther and Melanethon. St. Peter was no more of a miracle worker than Moody. St. Paul, nong the Macedonians, was no more than Claugh among the Teilegoos, or Powell among the Mexicans, or Diaz among the Cubans. Every man is a miracle worker who has led a human soul from the kingdom of Satan to the kingdom of God.

MEN HAVE CHANGED.

While the Lord God of Elijah has not changed, men's faith and feeling have sadly changed. Men who pretend to worship have got beyond expecting him to do any mighty works. While not true of all it must be admitted that the faith of the maority of the religious world to-day is feeble and unproductive.

Modern prophets who discard the supernatural in religion have nothing left. They do no miracles; they stop no Jordans; they cast out no devils; they call no fire from Heaven. fact some of them so far succumb to the materialistic spirit of the age that they are past believing that religion is or ever was a supernatural thing. Even in oid Scotland, the boasted bulwark of orthodoxy, the home of the covenants, hallowed by the lives and labors of such men as Knox. Chalmers and Guthrie, we hear a Presbyterian minister saying that "miracles belong to the poetry of religion. Instead of being a help they are a burden to faith, and there-fore are quietly dropped out of sight."

This means that Jesus Christ did not in reality turn water into wine, nor feed the multitude with the five loaves and two fishes, nor open the eyes of the blind Bartimeus, nor walk on the waves of Galilee, nor raise dead Lazarus from the grave.

It means that these are not his very acts and deeds, but only the dreams of pions men. Having eliminated all other miracles from his creed, we are not surprised that this Scotchman will not spare even the mir-acle of the new birth. He says, "We do not become Christians, we are Christians from our birth." But Christ says, "Ye must be born again." This bright particu-lar star of the new theology contradicts the Lord of life and glory by telling us there is no veed of any supernatural change. no need of any supernatural change.

DE. PARKHURST.

Who wonders that Dr. Parkhurst, who has championed the cause of Dr. Priggs, has allowed his preaching to degenerate into lectures on evolution, politics and social reform? Like his illustrious contemporary of the Scotch pulpit, he has let the supernatural elements of Christianity drop out of sight, and he considers nothing else worthy of his serious consideration.

The infidels are active in the dissemination of their ideas and a special committee is always busy sending literature to the ministry and on the lookout for any prescher who in his efforts for fame departs from the truths laid down by the God of Elijah and de-pends on his so-called culture for his success. rather than the strength of grace.

DIED FROM THE FLAMES. A Sunday Fire Caused the Death of Major F. M. Boykin's Cook.

The neighbors of Major F. M. Boykin, who lives at No. 419 east Franklin street, were rudely aroused on Sunday afternoon by cries of "fire" and in a few moments after the alarm was turned in at Fifth and Main, box 26. The room over his kitchen was found in a blaze and out of it rushed his cook, an old colored woman, Sallie Taylor, in flames from head to foot. The fire was soon put out, the blaze being confined to that room. Every attention was shown the unfortunate woman by Dr. Hugh M. Taylor, Dr. R. G. Crouch and the ladies of the families of Major Boykin and Dr. Taylor, and the ambulance having soon arrived she was, after dressing her burns, which were shocking, carried to the slusshouse for further treatment. She died at 9:30 P. M. on Sunday. The fire was caused either by her pipe falling on the bed while she was dozing or, as she stated, probably from a match she stepped on which set fire to her

TESTIMONY OF MR. W. F. EPPS

What Dr. Coates Has Done for Him.

when the der Dr. Coates a few weeks ago I had been suffering from catarra for five or six years. My symptoms were headache; sometimes slight, at other times exerutiating. My nose was constantly closged up, and hard knots formed in it, which I blew out or hawked out with much difficulty. It also had mucus con-stantly falling back into my throat, and sometimes we uild blow large scabs from my no se. My threat often got dry and stiff and sore.

and stiff and sore.
At times there was a MR. W. P. EFFS.
thick, foul, yellow 508 north 17th street, discharge from my nose. I had ringing in my ears, and my sense of smelling and hearing were weakened. Occasionally I suffered from pain in the chest, and with beiching and sour stomach. My appetite was poor, memory weak, and I was very weak and nervous, but now I feel like another man. My health is wonderfully improved, all the catarrhal symptoms are about gone and I feel sure that I am on the road to perfect health. All this I owe to Dr. Coates, of 70°-east Franklin street,

A, H. & C. E. SCHAAP,

BOOTS, SHOES, &c. HERE WE ARE - AGAIN!

What are you wearing? It isn't possible that your feet are still encased in heavy win ter shoes at this season of the year! If this is not only possible but true, Isn't it about time that you made a change and won't our Oxford Tie be a most decided change for the better? For a wonderfully light shoe it is wonderfully durable, and for a wonderfully good shoe the price is wonderfully light. Don't be surprised if it sees you through another season as well as this. Isn't economy in footwear getting pretty near its limit when we are selling such a shoe as this for $1.00 to $2.50.
